"This life, therefore, is not righteousness, but growth in righteousness; not health, but healing; not being, but becoming; not rest, but exercise. We are not yet what we shall be, but we are growing toward it. The process is not yet finished, but it is going on. This is not the end, but it is the road. All does not yet gleam in glory, but all is being purified." --- Martin Luther

SCIENCE FAIR PROJECT EDUCATION

(AUSTIN, TX) - Thousands of students will descend to the Palmer Events Center in Austin in February, ready to show off their skills, innovation, and creativity at this year's Greater Austin Regional Science and Engineering Fair or GARSEF.

It's one of Texas' largest regional science fairs with almost 3,000 students from 3rd through 12th grade participating. It encourages and rewards innovative student research and provides scientists, engineers, and other professionals a chance to volunteer in the community. This year a group of volunteers was given the opportunity to judge L.L. Campbell Elementary School's Science Fair. The volunteers consisted of members representing the NAACP, NSPDK Delta Beta Chapter, Douglass Club of Austin, NCNW (National Council of Negro Women), Sisters Network, AKAs, and The Austin Chapter The Links, Inc

This group of volunteers (a partnership of organizations) was more than honored to serve our scholars to promote Science Education. Science Education has the promise of continued excellence in our schools. Several projects received perfect scores. The judges were impressed by the high quality of work by all grade levels.

This group of volunteers and their non-profit organizations mission is to work through and with diverse cooperating agencies and organizations in both public and private sectors to provide leadership, support, and outreach; to strengthen the economic and social position of African American women and their families; advocate for and provide services to families.

This group of volunteers, an Austin area partnership, will continue to serve Austin ISD and all area schools because since 1956 a version of The Greater Austin Regional Science and Engineering Fair has provided the inspiration, guidance, and support to build the robust STEM community we all enjoy in the Austin area.

Therefore, families, provide your scholar with the tools needed to excel.

HHSC Encourages Cancer Screenings During Cervical Health Awareness Month

(AUSTIN, TX) – The Texas Health and Human Services Commission is encouraging women to get screened for cervical cancer as part of National Cervical Health Awareness Month this January.

"Cervical cancer is one of the few cancers that can be prevented," said Crystal Starkey, deputy executive commissioner for Family Health Services at HHSC. "Routine cervical cancer screening is the most effective way to detect cervical cancer early, and the first step is talking with your doctor."

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends regular cervical cancer screenings for women ages 21–65. Cervical cancer is the third-leading cancer diagnosis for women ages 20-39 and fifth-leading for women ages 40-49 in Texas. According to the Texas Cancer Registry, an estimated 1,490 Texas women were expected to be diagnosed with cervical cancer in 2024.

The HHSC Breast and Cervical Cancer Services program provides free and low-cost women's health services for uninsured and underinsured Texas women who meet eligibility requirements. Services include cervical and breast cancer screenings and biopsies, clinical breast examinations and mammograms. Breast and Cervical Cancer Services helps fund clinics across the state that provide these lifesaving screening and diagnostic services. In fiscal year 2023, the program served 31,429 women, including 5,661 women who received cervical cancer screenings.

Breast and Cervical Cancer Services is primarily funded through the National Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program. Administered by the CDC, the program awards funding to states for early detection of cervical and breast cancers. For fiscal year 2024, the federal program awarded Breast and Cervical Cancer Services more than $5 million, and the Texas Legislature appropriated an additional $3.4 million.

To find Breast and Cervical Cancer Services providers or learn more about women's health services, visit the Healthy Texas Women website or call 2-1-1.
