(AUSTIN, TX) - On March 6th, 2019 the Lee Lewis Campbell Elementary Media and Performing Arts Institute celebrated their 80th anniversary with a big Welcome by Principal Keith Moore followed by the school scholars singing the School Song. Sheila Myainsi and Nolan Mills gave the history of 80 years being a school. The Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. performed. Proclamations were read from the City of Austin by City Councilmember Natasha Harper-Madison and Sharon Hudspeth-Holmes read one from Governor Abbott and Congressman Lloyd Doggett; other dignitary present Travis County Commissioner Jeff Travillion. An excellent performance by the Blue Dragon Step Squad.

The first Lee Lewis Campbell Elementary was built in 1030 and named after Dr. Lee Lewis Campbell, educator and religious statesman, from Milan County. It was located at 1600 Chicon Street.

In the spring of 1990, the citizens of Austin approved a bond package to build five new elementary schools. A new Lee Lewis Campbell Elementary was to be built with the bond funds. Construction began in September 1991. It was completed in the fall of 1992 at 2613 Rogers Avenue.

When current administrator, Principal Keith L. Moore arrived (2014) he redesigned the campus into a MEDIA and PERFORMING ARTS INSTITUTE, which began in the school year of 2016. Our scholars learn about: filmmaking, digital photography/printing, visual/art enrichment classes, printmaking, news casting, dance, choir, vocal arrangement, music production and so much more.

The history of Lee Lewis Campbell

Lee Lewis Campbell (ca.1865-1927). Lee Lewis Campbell, black Baptist pastor, was born in the mid-1860's in Milam County, Texas. He attended Bishop College in Marshall and then went to the University of Chicago. Sometime afterwards he returned to Texas and in 1887 married Ella Williams. They had three sons and one daughter. Campbell was ordained into the Baptist ministry at Cameron, Milam Country. In 1892 he became pastor of Ebenezer Baptist Church in Austin, a position he held for thirty-five years. In Austin he founded the St. John's Institute and Orphanage. He was president of the General Baptist State Convention and vice president of the National General Baptist Convention. He was also president of St. John's Encampment Colored Association, in which 10,000 African Americans came to Austin to discuss race relations. Campbell was also moderator of the St. John's Association, which had over 230,000 members across the state. He founded the Austin Herald in 1889. It was published every Saturday by the Publication Board of the General Baptist Convention of Texas in Austin. Campbell was ill the last two years of his life and died at Seton Infirmary on August 9, 1927, after surgery. His funeral on August 14 was attended by over 5,000 people. In 1939 L. L. Campbell Elementary School in Austin was named in his honor.

"This life, therefore, is not righteousness, but growth in righteousness; not health, but healing; not being, but becoming; not rest, but exercise. We are not yet what we shall be, but we are growing toward it. The process is not yet finished, but it is going on. This is not the end, but it is the road. All does not yet gleam in glory, but all is being purified." --- Martin Luther
