Federal Help for Veterans

A luncheon session specifically for Austin and area veterans will be held on Thursday, July 19. It is jointly hosted by both the City of Austin’s Military/Veterans Program and the Department Veterans Program together with the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). SBA’s certification programs can be essential tools for eligible veteran-owned businesses interested in selling their products or services to the federal government.

This session will cover the SBA’s Veteran Program and registering as a Veteran Owned Small Business (VOSB) or Service-Disabled Veteran Owned Small Business, (SDVOSB). It will address:

- Find out what these certifications are and how they can be beneficial to small businesses. Please feel free to bring your lunch.
- Ways to use these certifications to break down barriers and make the plan useless. That is the issue.
- The plan has been and will be enacted. But what will happen until 2014 when the total bill is expected to increase costs for patients...

We will not know the full extent of the impact until 2014 when the total bill will be enacted. But, what do we know is that there are more uninsured today than without healthcare than any other time in our history. Many companies have discontinued providing health insurance for their employees and their families. As a result of this action, most families cannot afford to pay for the protection of their families at the cost that insurance companies charge on an individual basis. The companies who do have the right to exclude pre-existing illnesses from the coverage. This does not provide insurance.

There is a very elementary, the state of Texas can require you to have insurance, then someone should have the authority to require you all to have insurance. That is a matter that the state has not had in the last century.
What was not surprising was that Clarence Thomas would not be able to hold the position he has long coveted filled by Robert H. Lee. He is widely regarded as the most conservative member of a conserva- tive Supreme Court. Thomas is far more conservative than Hugo Black, a former member of the Ku Klux Klan who served on the Court from 1937-1971. His views are close to those of the late Associate Justice Antonin Scalia, who is considered one of the three most conservative justices on the Court. Thomas is usually considered a swing vote on the Court, but he has voted against the majority position of the Court in a number of cases. His views on matters such as affirmative action, public employees, and the death penalty are often at odds with those of other justices. His positions on these issues have led some to question his loyalty to the conservative cause.
Austin Chapter of 100 Black Men of America to Focus on Mentoring

Eight Austin professionals have founded the new Austin chapter of the 100 Black Men of America, Inc. The national organization has more than 100 chapters in cities across the U.S., and focuses on health, wellness, economic empowerment and education. The mission is to improve the quality of life and enhance educational and economic opportunities for all African Americans.

Malcolm Gardner, CEO for Texas Restaurant Association and spokesperson for the new Austin chapter, said, “Young Black boys are facing very challenging times. We want to do our part to Black youth in the city lack role models and we’ll have it ready for you when you get here!”

African-American community leaders, relatives and friends of the founder are scheduled to attend a gala event at the Four Seasons Hotel on July 21 at 6 p.m. The gala will be the chapter’s first fund-raising event in order to help with the establishment and growth of this new chapter.

Johnson Signs Civil Rights Act

On this day (July 2) in 1964, U.S. President John F. Kennedy signed the Civil Rights Act into law.

In the landmark case Brown v. Board of Education, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that racial segregation in schools was unconstitutional. The 1950s had seen great strides for the African-American community, including voting rights, but the rights for the African-Americans and the movement’s main symbol, the black power movement, were the forefront of the movement.

The 2012 Beautillion Scholarship Winners

With the Honorable Judge Ronnie McDonald joining Mrs. ReShonda Tate Billingsley (2012 NAACP Image Award Winner) as the master and mistress of ceremony, respectively, 19 outstanding, charismatic young men were presented to the Austin community.

The evening included dinner and dancing, as well as the formal presentation of each of this year’s participants. In true Beautillion tradition, Austin vocalist, Sondra Johnson, treated the audience to an awe-inspiring performance of "There Can Be Miracles."

Following the formal presentation, guests were mesmerized by the traditional waltzes with the mothers and then the bellcotes, followed by an outstanding performance by the 2012 beaux. Beau performance coaches were 2006 Beau D. Kirk Johnson, II (Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.), Keith Overton-Hadnot (Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.) and Kevin Overton-Hadnot (Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc.).

During the formal program, recipients of the Dorothy Madison Scholarship (named after the Austin Beautillion Founder) were also announced. The 2012 winners are Beau Kevin Jamal Brown (first place) and Beau Michael Jared Nelson (second place).

Additionally, two other sponsoring organizations presented scholarships – the Austin Chapter of the Links, Inc. presented a scholarship to Beau Javon Keynan Artis, and the Jack & Jill Austin Associates presented a scholarship to Beau Nelson Wayne Cole.

The Associates’ Scholarship was named in honor of Mrs. Andrea Pair Bryant, a longtime Austin philanthropist who passed away earlier this year. Her husband, Mel Bryant, joined former Jack and Jill Regional Directors, Susan Johnson and Brenda Kennedy, in presenting the scholarship.

The 2012 Beautillion honorees were: Beau Javon Keynan Artis (Texas Southern University), son of Mr. and Mrs. Andreon Artis and Mrs. Lynette Felicia Artis; Beau Gavin Darrow Brown (University of Texas at San Antonio), son of Mr. Glenn Darrow Brown & Mrs. Trelisha Marie Brown; Beau Kevin Jamal Brown (Prairie View A&M University), son of Mr. Barry Brown and Mrs. Cynthia Brown; Beau Mario Nico Carvajal (Austin Community College), son of Mr. Monroe Yarbrough and Mrs. Beverly Yarbrough; Beau Mark Stuart Clanton, Jr. (U.S. Naval Academy) son of Dr. Mark S. Event proceeds will be used to support local charities in the Austin community. Thank you, Austin, for your continued support!
Duval Takes Democratic Win for 21st Texas Congressional District

By Tsoke (Chuch) Adjavon

On May 29, 2012 Candace Duval won the Democratic primary. In her campaign she represented the 21st Texas Congressional District. Furthermore, she won the primary with over 60% of the vote. The 21st Texas Congressional District runs from Northern San Antonio all the way to the South and Central Austin. The Congressional District includes parts of Riverside, Montopolis neighborhoods and also parts of the University of Texas at Austin Campus. Moreover, the 21st Congressional District is currently held by Lamar Smith, a Republican.

Candace Duval believes that she can win due to the fact that she received more votes in the Democrat primary than Lamar Smith in the Republican primary. Moreover, Candace Duval believes that it is important to register new voters and also get them to cast their ballots. According to candidate Duval, the 21st Congressional District is made up of 21 wards, turning out voters on the Travis County side of the District. Moreover, a candidate like Candace Duval will help further the president’s agenda.

Candace Duval has certain issues that she would support, if elected to the 21st Congressional District. According to Duval, she believes that education has the ability to empower individuals to pursue lives of liberty, happiness, purpose and abundance. As a result, her support improved access to high quality affordable education from pre-kindergarten through college, as well as job training programs to provide workers with the skills needed of the 21st century economy.

On June 10, 2012, LULAC with the El Comité Neighborhood Association held their “First of July in the Barrio Parade.” The “4th of July in the Barrio Parade” began their march which started from Caesar Chavez Street to Fiesta Gardens. At the Fiesta Gardens there were live music and various vendors. Furthermore, it was a great time for families to remember veterans while kicking off the Independence Day festivities. For instance, one attendee mentioned that she brought her kids so they could learn about the history of those that served the United States. Finally, there will be other events throughout the city that are designed for the community that served the country. For instance, the Iraq Veterans’ Parade, Job and Resource Fair will be held on July 7, 2012. The parade will run up to the Texas Capital Building.

Evan Goodwin became the first American to win the men’s long jump at the Olympic trials. The time matched the mark set on his sixth and final attempt. With the win Goodwin became the first person to win this event in four consecutive years from 1993-2005, and No. 22 on the all-time world list. His jump of 8.31 meters is one of the most outstanding jumps in recent memory. Goodwin said, “Earl three years. I couldn’t really start until the last few jumps. Popping off a good jump with no scratch helped me relax and know I can go out there and put out an even better jump.” The long jump competition at the London Olympics is scheduled for Aug. 3-4.

Trey Hardee earned a spot on the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Team with his second place finish in the decathlon. His final score of 8,383 points Saturday night at the Olympic Trials. Hardee made his second Olympic team less than one year after undergoing reconstructive elbow surgery to repair his ulnar collateral ligament. He tore throwing a personal-best in the javelin at the 2011 World Championships in Daegu, South Korea. “I got pretty emotional, more so than the first time making the team,” Hardee said. “And this definitely was more work. I had to have a lot more faith and a lot more patience but I couldn’t be any more excited than I am right now.”
