The Andy Roddick Foundation Set To Build Tennis Facility in East Austin

By Naomi Logan Richard

The Andy Roddick Foundation, established to help build new tennis facilities and programs, has announced they will begin construction on a new tennis facility in East Austin.

The foundation is growing, and we have some very exciting things going on, but we need the continued support of those behind our cause to reach our shared goals.” To spearhead the foundation’s growth, Roddick recently appointed Jeffrey Lau as ARF’s new Executive Officer. Lau said, “We are transforming ARF from an all-volunteer charity into a professional, not-for-profit organization focused on teaching character and life lessons to underserved youth through sports, health, mentoring, and education.”

Roddick has launched the foundation’s new strategy growth, Roddick recently appointed Jeffrey Lau as ARF’s new Executive Officer. Lau said, “We are transforming ARF from an all-volunteer charity into a professional, not-for-profit organization focused on teaching character and life lessons to underserved youth through sports, health, mentoring, and education.”

The election is set to include a new category of bond proposition, a bond initiative that renews the City’s bond program and outlines the necessary funding for the City of Austin’s capital projects. The bond initiative will provide the City with the necessary funding to implement its capital improvement program, which includes funding for new and existing facilities, infrastructure improvements, and other capital projects.

Local businesses will be invited to participate in the bond election, and the election results will be used to determine how much funding will be allocated to each category. The bond election is expected to be held in November, and the results will be announced shortly after.

In the August 10th edition of "The Villager," in Tommy Wyatt’s column “Rappin’,” the heading states “The System Isn’t The Problem!!!” I respectfully disagree; “The Power System’ is in the Fact of The Problem.”

The ‘power system’ is composed of those who control the resources and determine who will be elected. Mr. Wyatt, who I have known for a long time, provided readers with historical information regarding the way citizens of Austin elect the members of the Council. He also suggested that by adding two additional at-large seats (eight council members and the mayor), the ‘system’ would somehow be different.

There are two important things which were alluded to in the article but not named: Arthur B. DeWitty, the first Black person in modern times to run for one of five seats in 1951; and the ‘Gentleman’s Agreement’ which holds to those who finance the campaign. The ‘Gentleman’s Agreement’ is antiquated and continues to operate today.

In the early 70’s, some well meaning progressive men, part of the ‘power system,’ agreed that a Black person should be elected to the council in Austin. Two years later Place 6 was identified as the Hispanic area. The mayor is elected by the citizens of Austin elect the members of the Council. He also continues to operate today.

The ‘power system’ is in the Fact of The Problem. It is the only option on the November ballot, recommends the city councilman elected to districts, with 2 council members and the mayor elected at large. With this system, the mayor, the 2 at-large seats and because the four districts will be controlled by the ‘power system’ – the majority of the council.

We have a responsibility to identify all kinds of people who are willing to offer themselves at level of public service. There may be a Black person on the Council because that councilman continues to finance the campaign. We must be hopeful that any person of their interest of all people at heart and have the willingness to get out of their office and run for their constituents.

We are continually told that Austin is a growing city. We’re told the ‘power system’ is ‘greater change’ and that Austin isn’t able to do anything.

The outcome of this election is that working for you now?” My response is, “How is that working for you now?” We please be hopeful that any person of their interest of all people at heart and have the willingness to get out of their office and run for their constituents.

Health-conscious Pastors D. Lacy and Pastor Ralph H. Daniels are the leaders of two churches that have won the area's Best in Health contest in previous years. "As health care providers, we strive to make the church a place of health and wellness," said the two men. "We believe that the church should be a place where people can come to find answers to their health concerns." A leader at Freedom Home Baptist Church has seen people who are seeking answers to their health concerns, but do not know where to start. "We take it for granted that we’re going to have good health," he added. "But that may not happen. But the odds can be increased with some knowledge of how to maintain and recognize good health and vitality. Freedom Home was the site of a health fair on Saturday, September 22 from 11:30 A.M. On that same day, the Austin/ Travis County Health and Human Services Department's mobile van was on site to offer blood pressure and diabetes screenings. The HBE event included vendors from Seminart, Texas. Doctors on Wheels, Seton Family of Hospitals and other medical service providers. At the more recent event there was a table dedicated to disseminating information about the Sickle Cell disease. The Sickle Cell table volunteer is a 28-year-old woman who knew a sickle cell family in her early childhood. She was touched by how the disease impacted their lives. Ms. Dillow now travels to health fairs, conferences and conventions to spread information about the malady. She also has the unfortunate task of sending out notices to parents to advise that their newborns tested positive for the trait while in an Austin hospital. The trait is only a danger to two twin carriers because, she said, the odds are that a percentage of offspring will have the full-fledged disease. She sees no reason why the trauma the trait is causing can’t be a part of other. "Do you have the trait?" Dr. Lacy provided vision screenings to a number of people inside the church. "You see some people say that many children whose parents have vision problems and don’t know they are sickle cell trait carriers, "Ms. Dillow explained. "By using glasses, they can be helped to see better." She added that the effects of the disease may not be apparent until later in life. Another Victory for the Senior Team

The week was going to talk about an important subject that students at our school and others have in common. There are different types of bullying that we can experience. Sometimes it can be from a group or even a single person.

This is Homecoming Week

Our school is starting homecoming this Friday September 28th against Akins High School. We have been fighting hard for the past two weeks and we still haven’t won. We really need to have because I have 1 of the coaches as our teachers and he is always up on Mondays when they lose.

A Fun Project

E.G.I. Week is a great way to help students answer any unanswered questions about college. I motivo English class we are starting to put all the requirements that are necessary for college together. We have seen that we are doing for the past weeks are practices of all of our class and many see these exercises and improving our vocabula- ry to use more specific on our own. We are learning that is the way we write and years of writing articles for the English class.

The Cedar Ridge Ranger Varsity Football team defeated Round Rock Friday night with a score of 28-0. This was a great game to watch.

The other project is writing and drawing about someone important in your life. The person you are writing about is someone important in your life because they are the one who helps you do things. I hope you can see what are you favorite teams, and discuss who will win this game.

I prefer the Ranger football team because we have had a great season so far. The Rangers have won 6 games and only lost 1. I think the Rangers are going to win the game against Rouse High School this Friday.

Murchison Middle School

Today at Murchison Middle School we are kicking off the NFL season by wearing T-shirts with different NFL team names on it.

I like the idea because everyone can participate in this event. Even people who don’t know which team they like can join in and support their team of choice.

The Key Club

I am definitely looking forward to more fun and fabulous time while being at school.

The first 6 weeks

It is going to be the first 6 weeks of school. It was exciting and hard. It was because we were starting middle school. Our 8th grade math class is the one we have been using for the last 6 years. I am very happy and excited but I have been under- going a lot of changes in my life. I am now in a different math class and get help for extra Credit.

The Key Club

I am proud to have joined The Key Club. For those of you who don’t know what Key Club actually is, I’ll tell you what it is. The Key Club is not only an organi- zation that serves others, but it also promotes leadership skills. It allows young people to get involved in their community and serve others. The Key Club is a great way for people to get involved in their community and serve others.

The first three weeks of the semester have been busy, and there is only about thirty two weeks of worth of school left for me. It is so exciting to see how we have grown in the past six weeks, and I can’t wait for the rest of the year. I am more than ready to get back to school and learn some more. I am very excited about the rest of the year. I can’t wait to see everyone again.

Central Health Board Propositions on November's Ballot

By Tsoke (Chuch) Adjavan

On November 6, 2012, the majority of voters will be focused on the Presidential, Senatorial and Congressional races. However, most people will overlook the various propositions that are also on the ballot.

The voters tend to overlook the propositions on the ballot, due to the fact people do not campaign on it. In other words, it is up to the voting public to inform themselves on the propositions on the ballot.

In the upcoming elections, the Central Health Board unanimously approved placing a proposition on the ballot. The proposition placed on the ballot, would allow Travis County voters to vote for a health care tax.

According to the Central Health Board, the health care tax would be used to “expand and upgrade our local healthcare. The funds would be used to support a medical school, physicians, nurses and other healthcare providers’ training.”

Furthermore, the Central Health Board believes that the new benefits to the Health Care Tax, such as “Improving health care for you and your family; creating a new medical school at UT-Austin to address our doctor shortage; making Austin a center for medical excellence and expanding options for major illnesses so you and your family will not have to travel to seek cutting-edge treatments; creating 15,000 permanent jobs; and $3 billion in economic activity annually; saving taxpayers money by helping those without insurance; avoid the emergency room.”

Note: It is up for the Travis County voters to either vote for or against a Health Care Tax.

Sally Hernandez

By Tsoke (Chuch) Adjavan

During the Democratic Primary, Richard McCain the Con- stable of Precinct III was challenged by Sally Hernandez. After a heated primary, Sally Hernandez went on to defeat the incumbent by a miniscule 5% of the vote.

Moreover, McCain’s defeat went against the conventional wisdom in which an incumbent suffered a loss in a heavy Democratic Precinct.

After his loss, Sally Hernandez became the nominee of the Demo- cratic Party for Precinct III Constable Office.

Sally Hernandez will seek to “bridge the gap between our community and law enforcement”. According to Sally Hernandez, she seeks to “build a professional working relationship with area law enforcement agencies by providing strong leadership to the Precinct Three Constable’s Office.”

Moreover, Hernandez has been endorsed by numerous other law enforcement associations such as the Travis County Sheriff’s Law Enforcement Association, Travis County Sheriff’s Office Association, and the Austin Police Association.

Constables are constitutionally authorized peace officers, having the same arrest powers and duties as municipal police officers and sheriffs. The primary function of the constable’s office, however, is to be effectively and efficiently process and execute civil and criminal process in accordance with Federal and State laws, Texas Rules of Civil and Criminal Procedure and Travis County local rules.

Precinct III covers the majority of South Austin and other areas of Southern Travis County. Furthermore, Precinct III is heavily democratic area.

The San Antonio Spurs will start the season on October 1st, and not in game situations with the younger players. Danny Green and Kawhi Leonard and other new additions will be sitting players out from home games and on some occasions not making some road trips. In the end, the plan worked. The Spurs went to the Western Conference Finals against the Oklahoma City Thunder. The youth movement that had taken the Spurs to the number one seed in the regular season was not able to continue that success in the championship series, but to the surprise of many, the Spurs won the series. The big 3 of Tim Duncan, Manu Ginobili and Tony Parker carried the bulk of the load for that series.

This year the Spurs will have the opportunity to have regular practice sessions with the younger players. Danny Green and Kawhi Leonard and other new additions will have the opportunity to get more familiar with the Spurs system in practice and not in game situations. The Spurs will play in a new alternate jersey that will be kept due to the upcoming 2012-13 NBA season. The uniform will be silver with black trim feature the Spurs iconic secondary logo prominently on the front. The alternate jerseys will debut at the home opener vs. the Thunder on Nov. 1 and be worn during multiple home games on the back of the jersey and the accompanying shorts continue the black and white striped side panel. The familiar Spurs primary logo is represented above the number on the front and the accompanying shorts continue the black and white striped side panel. "We are introducing a new and unique Spurs jersey this coming season," said Rick Pych, Spurs Sports & Entertainment President of Business Operations. "The new design simply features our iconic ‘spur’ logo and it is positioned over the heart as it has such enormously deep roots with our team, fans and the entire community. It’s the first-ever NBA team logo without any writing or peripheral design on the front of the jersey and we’re very glad to be introducing this new use of the classic icon of the Spurs to our fans."

The new silver jersey features a distinct, modern look with the Spurs trademark alternate logo prominently featured over the heart on the front, the number resting on the right breast and black and white vertical stripes along the side panel. The familiar Spurs primary logo is represented above the number on the front and the accompanying shorts continue the black and white striped side panel and feature a "SA" monogram logo on the left leg.

Our traditional uniform icons have a very classic look and our new jerseys are a nice alternative to keep things fresh," said Spurs Head Coach Danny Green. The Spurs will open the pre-season at the ATT Center against Montichiari Siena. Siena is from Italy. This will be the third time the Spurs have hosted an Italian team. The Spurs' defense came into the game ready to meet the challenge. Manning was able to continue that success to the number one seed in the Western Conference and defeated the Oklahoma City Thunder.

The Cowboys will receive a key weapon in DeMarco Murray after not playing last season. Murray ran three plays gained 36 yards and finished the first game of the year with 71 yards. The running back made major improvements in the first game. He threw 52 times in the game completing 26 passes for 330 yards 2 touchdowns and 1 interception. Manning called the Brons to 2 fourth quarter touchdowns and cut the lead down to 2 points with 3 minutes left in the game. The offensive line for the Broncos took over and controlled the ball for 2 minutes and 40 seconds only allowing the Broncos to have 20 seconds and 98 yards to win the game. The Broncos ran three plays gained 36 yards and finished the first game of the season. After that the talk was not about how good the team is, but how much better the offense could be the following week. Manning looked great in his first game and below average in his second game. The Texans defense came into the game ready to meet the challenge. Manning was able to continue that success to the number one seed in the Western Conference and defeated the Oklahoma City Thunder.
