The two faces of Lady Justice.

One of the famous statues in America is the one that shows Lady Justice with a blindfold over her eyes. This is to emphasize that “Justice is Blind” meaning that she will handout the same brand of justice, depending on whether you are rich or poor. There is no better example of this rule than the case of the youth in Keller, Texas who was convicted of killing four people while driving drunk. He was 16 years old. The judge, District Judge Jean Boyd could have given him up to 30 years in jail but instead, gave him probation. She said that Ethan Couch suffers from “affluenza”, meaning his wealthy parents pretty much let him get away with everything. Which in this case, he was not responsible for his actions. He is to be confined to a rehab center at a cost of $34,000 per month.

Wow! What a punishment! I do not know any poor person and not many rich defendants who would have been given such a sentence. In fact, I do not know many rich people. Texas is one of the states that still have the death penalty and life sentencing without parole for “non-violent” crimes. It’s clear that, if you do not have rich parents, you will not get the same treatment as he was. The prosecutor for the case was more concerned about his education than his responsibilities.

In Travis County, you can get 17 years in prison by injuring someone in a fight. There are no plea bargains in this matter. Your fate is left in the hands of a jury, not the judge. There is no better example of this rule than the case of the youth in Keller, Texas who was convicted of killing four people while driving drunk.

If information is the new currency, communities of color could go broke. A new report by the Greenlining Institute, titled “DISCONNECTED: What the Phone System’s Digital Transition Will Mean for Consumers,” alleges that the immediate shift to digital phone networks could leave certain communities without affordable services and access to 911 for emergencies.

The Greenlining Institute is a Berkeley, Calif.-based research and advocacy nonprofit focused on racial justice. According to the report’s findings, because major telephone providers plan to upgrade the technology they use in their telephone networks, including switching to all-digital networks, the FCC needs to enforce the Lifeline program that provides discounted service for troubled youth. LOW-INCOME CONSUMERS AT RISK DUE TO LACK OF HOME INTERNET SERVICE?

“Downtown”

By Shirley A. Hammond

AUSTIN - “Things will be great when you go downtown.” The 1964 international hit song, composed by Petula Clark and Tony Hatch and popularized by Petula Clark promises that a trip downtown can solve many woes and offer brighter lights, an easier life, and not telecommunication services.

The report points out that all of these findings combined would affect all telephone users but would hurt low-income consumers and communities of color the most because those groups are less likely to have home Internet services and use them.

Nomination Categories include: Arts, Business, Care Giver, Civic Leader, Community, Education, Health Professionals, Law, Professional, Religion, Spirituality, and Women’s Issues.

I believe discipline and confidence are spiritual tools to be used wisely. Discipline is an amazing thing because it allows us to have and maintain one's faith. Coupled with confidence, it can lead to great discoveries. It's a start to the journey that we have to take. Godly, these two tools to be used to walk the walk of the faith talk. I believe people who make these tools understand, have internal power and the result is the product of faith, growth, and education.

The theatre company offers 75 years of combined experience. Spectrum boasts 75 years of combined experience. It is essential for the committee to evaluate nominations for the Profiles of Prominence ceremony slated for March 22, 2014. This nomination form is the basis for selections. Accurate, complete, and legible information is essential for the committee to evaluate nominees fairly.

The awards will be presented at the 2014 Connie Yerwood Conner African-American Profiles of Prominence ceremony, March 22, 2014 (location and time to be announced), or may be requested by emailing Austin.nwoa@gmail.com.

Christmas tree. The play surrounds the life of Ebenezer Scrooge, an elderly man grumpy about life and money. Scrooge thinks he is alone in this, all the smiles, gifts and cheer seem to leave him. But when Scrooge “humbug” he would say, he is visited by three spirits that show him his uncharacteristically past, his dismal present, and his (…) future. Through this, he has the opportunity to change for the better in his (…) future. Through this, he has the opportunity to change for the better in his (…) future. Through this, he has the opportunity to change for the better in his (…) future. Through this, he has the opportunity to change for the better in his (…) future. College Bound University, University of Texas at Austin (UT), and Texas A&M University (TAMU) I decided to apply early admission to Stanford because it was my first choice and regular admission for the others.

Once I completed that application, I applied to UT and TAMU knowing that I was going to be admitted because of my class rank. As I waited for the application decision to arrive, I occupied my time by keeping my grades up and applying for scholarships. Finally, the day came. On December 13th, I received the email containing my application decision from Stanford. I could hope for was not to be denied and at the very least, be deferred to regular decision. I opened up the email and to my surprise, I was admitted!

Two days later, I accepted the offer of admission and am proud to say I am on my way to becoming a Stanford Cardinal. I choose that, although those three years of hard work really paid off.

I'm about to be done with school, so happy I have been waiting for a long time. This week in Science Ms. Rende taught the seventh graders about Simple Machines. There are seven simple machines: there is a pulley, lever, fulcrum, wheel & axle, wedge, inclined Plane & screw. An inclined Plane is just a ramp. A screw is the easiest way I an inclined Plane is made out of two inclined planes, an example of a Wedge, and a pair of scissors. The easiest way I an inclined Plane is just a ramp. A screw is just a spun inclined. Those are what simple machines are.

Simple Machines We Use

This week in Science Ms. Rende taught the seventh graders about Simple Machines. There are seven simple machines: there is a pulley, lever, fulcrum, wheel & axle, wedge, inclined Plane & screw. A pulley is just a rope lined with a wheel. A lever is a hard bar with a fulcrum; well a fulcrum is the base of a lever. A wheel & axle is basically a wheel and a metal bar. A wedge is made to separate things and made out of two inclined planes, an example of a Wedge an axe, and a pair of scissors. The easiest way I an inclined plane is just a ramp. A screw is just a spun inclined. Those are what simple machines are.

The Togolese of Central Texas Announces End of Year Celebration

by Tsoke (Chuch) Adjavon

As the Togolese Association grows, it plans to hold events by which the general public could learn about the nation of Togo. For instance, it plans to hold an end of year event on December 28th, so that its members and also other African communities living in Central Texas can attend. Moreover, the end of year celebration will be held in Pflugerville, Texas. Also, one can get more information with Mr. Bouramni at (512) 845-8387. In the coming year of 2014, the Togolese Association plans to celebrate the nation’s independence day.

Since 2011, the people of Togolese descent living in Central Texas which includes cities like Austin, Pflugerville, Round Rock, Georgetown, Killeen, San Marcos, and Temple have decided to form an association. Moreover, the association would serve as a method in which the Togolese Diaspora living in Central Texas would celebrate their common history and culture. In addition, the Togolese association seeks to teach their children and non-Togolese about their homeland.

Finally, the Togolese Association meets the last Sunday of every month in order to talk about various aspects of the association. Moreover, the Togolese Association has a dozen of members who are from various geographic regions of Togo. For instance, some members are from various regions such as the Plateau region area (Prefecture of Kpetoe and Kloto), the Maritime region area (Prefecture of Golf, Yoto, and Lac), and the Central region area.

Furthermore, the Togolese Association is open to any one of the Burkinabe diaspora for the spouses of those married to individuals of Togolese descent.

December 11, 2013 the nation of Burkina Faso and its Diaspora living in Central Texas celebrated their nation’s 53rd Independence Day. The nation of Burkina Faso celebrated its independence day with music, speeches, and a parade that included both civil and military processions. It was a time for the entire nation to celebrate their ability to determine their own self-determination of their country. And the Diaspora living in Central Texas it was an opportunity for them to think about their homeland.

Burkina Faso is a land-locked country in West Africa. It is bordered by the south to the nations of Togo, Ghana, and Ivory Coast. To the east by Niger; to the north-west by Mali. Its population stands approximately at 16,000,000 million inhabitants. The people of Burkina are both religiously and ethnically diverse who have managed to keep the country united. Over the years, the nation of Burkina has emerged as peace deal makers among warring West African countries.

Over the years, the Burkinabe diaspora has grown over the years as well as the area of Central Texas has experienced an economic boom. Some Burkinabe have opened up their own business such as Habiba and Daniella, who have opened up their own business in Central Texas.
